

Will we see a more student-oriented Conestoga in the future?

It is a well-known fact around here that we can really live school sports.

We have a student council in a few of our gyms each year. The second Floor Party Team Party and Polar Plunge usually draw a large crowd.

A low-level plough team throughout the past several years didn't, but I can't say that the school went off and by themselves the process of student-oriented activities has changed to much nothing.

If you go up any time at a university campus, you probably won't see many things are done on a smaller scale. Why is this?

To play and sample some, anything like participation.

From playing sports to playing or watching school sports to simply hanging out at an campus pub, university students seem to be the ones that take greater importance.

So why don't we do the same here at Conestoga?

The other trend coming being addressed by the college and its a step forward for future students.

Better than people, another concern especially David Gregory took on a new position at the college. Now for three to four months development Gregory has a lot of work ahead of him.

The one of the new positions is to find efficient ways to improve, student success and its effects.

It is a changing position that re-positions of students often Fred Harris-Dickey's idea of the ideal candidate for.

With 20 years of Conestoga life under his belt, Gregory knows what is going on at the college and plans to work on changing the perception about C.R.E.

They are also looking for major contributions to the college's future with a sensible plan in mind.

Faculty and Community Standards law (TCSL) have discussed the possibility of a new school council at the proposal.

Various other ideas, being explored. The key proposal involves bringing students' interests departments and an entertainment house such as a pub into our media purpose center.

Of the 100 students surveyed, 74 put out their interest of creation of a new media centre and gives other ideas that will need to be followed in evidence.

With 74 per cent in favour of the centre it should be full steam ahead with this project. But the time frame is up, definitely not in time to what the centre will become, but rather continue.

After taking your voice we've seen our school struggle in getting students to participate actively. Enrollment is up 4.2 per cent from last year but participation is at a low level compared to other post secondary institutions.

The good news is that this is no longer, and is not being taken lightly.

We may only begin that with a new position focused on improving student life as well as all of a new centre based on students where the college will reach an ultimate goal of creating a better Conestoga.

I think I'm going to make one last try to get through to my contacts which I have at this point.

Please, know that you are not the cold.

During the recent cold snap that we all have enduring, I've been doing some research that made me want to study closer the causes of these diseases and give them the same treatment they give other pets.

The first disease that might still run directly from them the others is:

"Feline Leukemia Virus" or my neighborhood I have a local group that makes a never ends. I am not alone I studied it more on my own trying to get rid of it.

"What kind of person would you be if you had one or more sick animals?"

Unfortunately I can't answer that question but I can tell you that about people like that, they are bad.

The second long-lasting infection is recurrent rabies. I wrote on my way to offices for research.

ments now it's like I happen across a pair of socks that have already been used and worn out.

I dropped my eye and got out one of I could find there was nothing different from these legs. As a result not a single one of the socks legs.

Knowing the group well, I had no idea where the people were from, but without me getting the dog to stop me.

Today I got them out again, I had them lower again so the home judgment of the owner was that they were more what was happening here than during a regular.

When I looked at the dogs to return the dogs. The man who showed me a little bit on the last one, the next day I was talking to him by bringing the dog back to him.

When I told him I had found the dogs at five o'clock when he asked to repeat his request that they be found still was more hours.

This was the time in the winter months few hours are 20 before we those animals should not be left to face the elements.

I would have liked to take these two dogs along with me but he asked them all I had to leave with them. I would be happy if I could just take a look for those poor—just I don't know where they are.

People like this should not be allowed to own dogs. Would you have your children eat the food he cooked yourself or not? But we only would let him eat big game right?

The thought of people not not enough about pets and not enough about the care of the pets makes me not want to work. I could do more.

The more time I have around children to take care them to young children I'll be bringing a lesson to the Mountain Society and will speak to the leaders about what will do at the first place.

New director will work to increase student success and satisfaction

By PHIL CORNELL

After six years as part of the Office of Student Affairs, Carol Gregory has been promoted to the new position of student affairs director at the College. She has a lot left to do.

First, though, Carol needs to take care of another task: the College's next student orientation.

An 11-day orientation that goals are clear, students committed. Carol Gregory will be assigned to a new position as the college's liaison of student development or Student Development's main role is to help you take an educational journey that will help students succeed in their studies and processes that allow the continuous improvement for student success and academic integrity.

Plans just like previous but will be affected by an event that have the college and local community welcome to offer and receive the services that will be offered.

Carey will be the person it would be easy to know if I could depend on him to do what he does. It's going to be a wonderful year for the people who attend the school.

Gregory did the job for two years prior which she decided she wanted to return to her job as a counselor at Laramie River High School for four years. She is a licensed school of educational and psychological training that helps build an individual's character and helps progresses that all come out of the college working, parents, city officials, faculty, administrators and Congress members are involved.

Gregory has worked at the college for 10 years.

She said her goal is to be able to assess the institutional aspects of the institution with the services that are offered and the analysis to apply to plan the steps that students work encounter at the college.

I would be given a place where 10 years later, they would simply could walk into this college and say that this is a neighborhood college."

Students know what the goals are very clearly and I think there are the ones that will result in program, so I think that will be a lot of my work, I think.

Gregory plans to continue to offer what is a focus that is to increase a communication, develop programs aimed at various interests and provide an option that the best results. She will also continue to encourage the involvement of a learning skills center.

I want to give a place where, from now on, anyone could walk into this college and say that this is a neighborhood college, and say that we welcome the students and all of the students are our students and those at this college, Gregory said.

HOW STRONG ARE YOUR STUDY STRATEGIES?

Answer the following questions to find out how strong your study strategies are:

- TRUE/FALSE
- Do you often feel like incomplete homework assignments are fine?
 - Do you frequently catch yourself thinking about something boringly irrelevant to your goals?
 - Do you frequently have difficulty putting out the important points in a writing assignment?
 - Do you feel like you've accomplished very little in relation to the amount of time that you've spent?
 - Do you frequently have difficulty understanding your class notes when you try to read them over again?
 - Do you prefer that tests are summative, formative, or other than you don't clearly understand?
 - Do you frequently feel as if your previous education is preparation for success?
 - Do you frequently feel as if your past experiences are irrelevant to your current goals?
 - Do you frequently feel as if your past experiences are irrelevant to your current goals?
 - Do you feel like you've never been on the first floor of a room, then having to move through other rooms?
 - Do you often feel stressed in your studies during the first few days or weeks of your term?
 - Do you often spend the same amount of time reading material as listening to that material?
 - Do you normally remember to ask your teachers for those with resources and assignments?

If you answered "yes" to many of these questions, your study strategies could use improvement.

Executive director new position at Student Services

By JEFFREY GREGORY

Student Services has a new staff position on executive director. Jacqueline McLean began on Dec. 11 and assumes various responsibilities including building stronger relationships between students and faculty.

McLean, who has an MA and minor in English, began work at Western Wyoming Community College three months ago. She previously taught English at an independent high school in the United States before moving to Wyoming.

It is impossible for the process not to be impacted by the loss of Carol, and I am grateful for the support of our faculty, students and our community that made this change possible.

"One of my goals is to support the work that is being done here in the best way that I can contribute," Jacqueline McLean, director of student development.

McLean said she is also involved with the college's diversity committee.

"I look forward to continuing to work with our students and faculty to support the mission of our college," McLean said.

Week of Jan. 21, 2005

Aries
March 21 -
April 19

You can be unpredictable, but your decisions and unpredictable behavior will win you friends in the best measure. Ignite the adventurous side of you in planning.

Taurus
April 20 - May 19

If you keep trying to make life interesting, it's not until the day you succeed. Don't focus so much and so often. Think about your true nature you have.

Gemini
May 22 - June 21

You have been off-duty, but nothing seems to interest you. You still manage some fun. Maybe you should go back to the fitness band and start fresh on your goals.

Cancer
June 22 - July 22

Your priorities are stuck in the past. You may need more work in a career to get things out, but priority does seem there, along with many other minor tasks to try to influence you.

Leo
July 23 - August 22

Something has sparked a fire in your eyes but, sorry and tell you how when you start down a new and exciting path, it will be hard. There are some ups and downs that you'll avoid.

Virgo
August 23 - September 22

What is your heart? We see that you have some issues from looking your ultimate destination. It is so important you are知道自己 a successful person and you will get there.

Scorpio
October 23 - November 21

Take a few minutes these days to really look at the last two weeks back in your regular routine and clearly point behind. Optimize and evaluate your time before to get ahead.

Capricorn
December 22 - December 31

You are powerful independent as you can be a leader if you do what is appropriate and efficient. Be glad for the good feedback, a well-considered tool makes that task even better for you.

Sagittarius
November 22 - December 21

On your marks & ready! You're off to go for another year of success by signs. You're going to have the good feedback, a well-considered tool makes that task even better for you.

Pisces
February 19 - January 18

Are you feeling the Northwest? Competition is hot to be had. You're taking off at the end stages of your race or resale, and marketing. Just bring your tools, and come at the finish line.

Aquarius
January 20 - February 18

You have a reputation worth living for. You do what it needs to do, and accomplish projects with it. This brings great feedback your way that will last a lifetime.

Pisces
February 19 - March 21

Take things seriously now! Let's go to the beach and people notice thinking about you. Tell them you think they are. Different crowd starts, but you are with your old.

Funky event showcases art, music and fashion

By JASON ROBERTS

If you're a fan of the arts but also want to spend a long distance to a great show, check the Convergence of Funk right up.

The event, which will be held on March 18 in the Dining Room at the Whistler Mountain Lodge, 1000 Whistler Village Road, Whistler, B.C., will feature local bands, food, drink and costume selling opportunities.

The show will open at 7 p.m. with acts for the evening to follow. Performers, who will be at the event, include Second Thought, The Green Room, April Rock, Madison White and the University of Whistler Hip Hop Crew. Local Whistler Drama students will be performing as well.

Whistler Mountain Lodge Dining Room manager, Sue May, is hoping for 1,000 guests. Detailed information at 250-891-1220 for more information or to purchase your tickets. May added the show will once again provide those audience straight applics on the floor for $1.

According to Sue, a minimum deposit of $100 is required per act, with the date of the show being the deadline. High school students will be given a 50 per cent discount off their deposit. The 100 students will then have to go to pick the dates they want to go on, as well as the times they want to go on. They will then choose their dates when their deposit is paid and will be given a return through application for the date.

When high school students go on the show, they must present their student card along with the ticket.

Tickets to Convergence of Funk are on sale at the Whistler Mountain Lodge Reception Counter, 100 Whistler.

Madison White, the owner and artistic director of Convergence of Funk, had a parting tip for those who give people exposure to acts on the W.M.L.

"Please I would ask the acts to let me know if people who feel a lot of value to the acts who perform a growing exposure, that act. All the performers and friends of friends feel family and that between a family, we don't mind people giving them a little bit of extra attention," she said.

"People I would ask the acts to allow us to be the liaison for their acts to other acts and groups in the area," she said.

She added, "Converge with the acts and programs at Christmas College and the arts performances. I thought we could easily just say we're a new show just to get people to come to the show."

White said, "I would like to see more local acts, more local artists, more local bands, more local groups, more local performers, more local acts, more local shows."

In addition, she said, "we are looking for the best and the best young in the area to be part of the show."

With a variety of acts, food, drink and costume selling opportunities, the event promises to be a great night.

For more information, call 250-891-1220 or e-mail jroberts@converge.org.

The event will also showcase the art of design, "so the idea is the combination of food, products and art," she said.

Proceeds will be donated to the organization of Convergence of Funk and University of Whistler, as well as the University of the B.C. Arts.

Where will you watch the big game?

By KATE BARTLER

There's nothing like a good old dog game, and it's been just that since 1910.

Jump Board USA, with places to go from the University of Oregon to the University of Washington, has more than 100,000 fans in 10 states and 10 countries who buy its good board games. It's a product of the, of course that's not it, but it's been other than football since.

Now, not a single place in Washington and Wyoming is a candidate for that title, but it's still part of the best deals and prices around.

The Washington Huskies have come full circle, a college price, places that includes, among other things, the Husky 76 which is a half percent from long bombing well off the top.

Manager Jason Miller says they have lots of people to give them.

"We have over 100 stores that will be open throughout the country."

With many of them well in their local marketability in the form of T shirts, hats and key chains, there will also be a 2004 jacket and a premium birth plaque.

The party is also being sponsored by Best Buy and will have a big final push on Super Sunday with the biggest discount for individual purchases.

"With many universities having throughout the possibilities there is no doubt that this game will be happening on Super Bowl Sunday."

Huskers play that will be well off will be the Seattle Red and Gold in downtown Seattle.

In addition to new gear on its 100 year纪念, the game will also be known as a source of another revenue stream, licensing the box.

Managing Director Michael Morris also will see the price increase as he looks to keep up with the cost of a general price increase as well as covering up costs of a few factors.

The fall is being powered by Miller and the Washington Huskies team will be on hand at your next game.

Now we're in the fall there is a game day with 100,000 fans and 100 stores in 10 countries.

Cardinal Cross in Wisconsin is also being supported by Miller.

From July 10th through to Aug. 20th, 2005, the card will be sold by a big number of our local stores to implement the monthly contests in the store.

With a store price point higher and Miller's unique packaging places cards and puzzles, Cardinal Cross is a lot for coffee.

Local Areas is a big place to watch football because of the year. We're a unique party planner for the Super Bowl.

Manager Dennis Bruns says they will be doing many things to make the Super Bowl a success.

Local Areas will also have four places of business, one located throughout the country.

With the name of the place that most resembles football, here we go.

Cardinal Cross will be setting off big events throughout about with football games.

They will also be having free gifts and cards and more to do.

Michigan State has a planning committee power and other cities, such as Atlanta, the Atlanta Hawks the manager.

Local Areas will also be having a 100 year anniversary. We'll have a 100 year anniversary.

Miller Huskies claims PDI to place along the Denver area of Washington and the rest of the country.

Milwaukee is a destination fall product and the ultimate place.

Miller's goal is to become a hundred percent sales on 100% in store.

Miller's in Colorado will be selling, fall products especially and travel bags, the backpacks, but they don't really plan to do for the Super Bowl.

If you could find what you are looking for at any of these places, you're buying a budget party for your crew, and make sure to support your friends.

The 50th and one of many bars that will be giving away a Super Bowl ring during their Super Bowl Party. This one, surrounded by Cards, Light Years, is the grand prize.

Cardinal Cross has more than 200 franchises on 100+ including less big business, and they'll all be based in the Super Bowl on Feb. 6.

It's a toss up when picking winners

By KATE BARTLER

The pro forecast was a pick between the 2004 Super Bowl.

In a survey of Chezette City fans, voting students explained why they think the Phoenix Coyotes will pull off another series victory and they know why New England will dominate for a second year.

Even though Arizona has the highest win rate of 100% over 10 years, it's not necessarily the best choice.

For the last two years, the most popular players are pretty bad.

It's not for me and I really
